Stories of Hope
I arrived at Humboldt Area Foundation and took over my position as CEO in August 2019, shortly after the start of the new fiscal year. The board, staff, and I were excited about what lay ahead: creating a community-driven strategic plan, investing in systems and infrastructure, reassessing the best ways to support our entire region, and engaging with the many generous donors devoted to this special place.

We were making many positive strides toward a reinvigorated HAF and Wild Rivers Community Foundation, our affiliate in Crescent City, when COVID-19 began its first reach into California in March 2020. Like many of your businesses, schools, and organizations, we rapidly shifted course and were faced with a test as old as time: to adapt to the great uncertainty before us. In doing so, we also embraced an old adage: never let a crisis go to waste.

We mobilized our staff to reconnect with hundreds of people and organizations in the four counties we serve: Del Norte, Humboldt and Trinity in California, and Curry County Oregon. Our aim was to understand and respond to the needs of the most vulnerable with grants, technical assistance, and coordination across sectors. We raised record-breaking funds from national philanthropy and local donors. This could not have happened without the generosity and support of our local donors and fund holders. The yearbook is a testament to their commitment to this special place we all call ‘home.’

During those first six months, thousands of hours and millions of dollars were invested in caring for our communities. Then, when the wildfires broke out, our rapid-response team mobilized once again to aid those who were evacuated, at health risk, or lost their homes. And again, we did it in partnership with philanthropy, donors and other community leaders.

While it was—and continues to be—a challenging time for all, the acute health and social inequity faced by people of color required us to recognize and respond to the disparities. We announced and began taking immediate action focused on eight commitments devoted to racial equity, safety and belonging.

Our model of response, service, equity, and deep connection with our most vulnerable was a pivot point for HAF and our affiliates. The multiple crises of 2020 gave us a renewed purpose and a platform for the future. In our new form, we will be ready to serve and stabilize our region in great times of need, as well as empowering our region to solve some of the deep, systemic challenges exposed during the past year. This vision for our—and YOUR—foundation, promises a stronger, healthier, more just recovery. It is a vision of us, in service together, for whatever may come our way.

Humboldt Area Foundation (HAF) and our affiliate, Wild Rivers Community Foundation (WRCF), launched the COVID-19 Regional Response Fund to address the immediate and emerging needs of our region’s most vulnerable residents—from mitigation to eventual recovery from the coronavirus pandemic.

The fund makes grants on a rolling basis to nonprofits, charitable organizations and public agencies across Trinity, Humboldt, Del Norte and Curry counties and has directed grants to date toward organizations serving first responders and healthcare providers; seniors; low-income families and youth; geographically isolated residents; disabled individuals and those with underlying conditions; veterans; resident facing housing or food insecurity; Native Americans and at-risk communities of color; and those with limited healthcare resources.

The word “emergency” contains the word “emerge,” and that’s no coincidence.

In helping our community address the countless challenges of COVID-19, we’ve seen our community in a new light—learning things we could not have possibly known, and earning a deeper appreciation for things we already knew. Here are some of the themes that have

A good decision made quickly is better than a perfect decision made slowly. HAF & WRCF adjusted our typical grantmaking process to move fast, entrusting our personal and professional networks to identify the greatest areas of need, and then entrusting our grantees to do what’s right with the funding they received.

A clear process is important, but flexibility is vital. HAF & WRCF sought unrestricted funding for the short-term to increase the options available to help those in need. We plan to continue the same approach into 2021 and beyond, while promising the same level of accountability and transparency we’ve always provided.

Although money and systems and logistics are important, this is all about people—the people HAF & WRCF employs as staff, leaders, and volunteers; the people in our most vulnerable communities; the people our community has elected to positions of power; and the people in our schools, nonprofits, and community groups who have shown us a deep understanding of their community’s needs.

CoVID-19 Regional Response Fund

It’s not all about money—sometimes it’s about knowledge and expertise. HAF & WRCF convened a workshop with retired public-health professionals to help nonprofits learn how to provide essential services while reducing the risk of spreading disease.

It’s important to share stories of challenges and successes. If you want people to make a difference, you need to provide them with accurate, up-to-date information. In rural regions, our newspapers and radio stations are lifelines to many and provide essential local context, so we shared our stories and, in many cases, extended grants to ensure that they could do their jobs effectively.

The more connected communities are through personal relationships and cultural infrastructure, the better able they are to weather any storm. Rural communities like ours often boast more tight-knit connections, and our Hmong, Lao, Native and Latinx neighbors proved that every day.

This emergency is not over. The pandemic isn’t yet under control. Natural disasters here—and everywhere—are becoming more frequent, more deadly and more costly. And the impacts of these events will always hurt certain communities more than others. We must find ways to strengthen civic connections and promote smarter, more inclusive public policies for the next 25, 50, 100 years.

While many of the grants provided through the fund have been focused on addressing immediate needs, HAF & WRCF recognize the value of addressing larger, more systemic issues that have become even more evident throughout the pandemic. Here are just a few we are committed to tackling together into the future:

Local Self-Sufficiency. Although our coast is known for its farms, dairies and cattle ranches, the pandemic has made it incredibly difficult to process those goods and move them efficiently. HAF & WRCF have begun looking at possible solutions that might disrupt our dependency on external food-supply chains and find more ways to help our industries better serve our own residents—strengthening both in the process.

Access to Information. At a time when information is lacking or, worse, misinformation is spread on social-media channels, we’re supporting local journalism: HAF & WRCF created the Community Voices Coalition to elevate stories of the most vulnerable people, and invest in the long-term health of local media. The coalition, anchored by mediapartners Access Humboldt and the North Coast Journal, has already generated multiple stories covering vulnerable and underrepresented communities, highlighting the pandemic’s disproportionate impact on our Latinx community.

Health-care Infrastructure. The coronavirus exposed gaps in the number of health-care workers, the amount of equipment, and more broadly, emergency preparedness. Forced to delay non-urgent procedures, hospitals and clinics struggled to generate enough revenue to survive. HAF & WRCF have been investing in health-care infrastructure by focusing on health careers and supporting the university and community college with creating a nursing program.

$1,274,882 Funds disseminated to schools, nonprofits, tribes, and community organizations as of June 30, 2020—nearly three times the amount that HAF and WRCF would typically distribute in a similar time period.

106 Number of grants administered across Del Norte, Humboldt, Trinity and Curry counties as of June 30, 2020.

The impact of the COVID-19 Regional Response Fund would not have been possible without the immediate outpouring of gifts from the following donors and funders. In a time of financial uncertainty for many, the generosity seen in response to the pandemic reminds us of our shared values and our collective strength. This selfless dedication to supporting those in need gives us confidence that together we can continue building resilient and thriving communities no matter what may come our way. Reflects gifts received between March 1, 2020 and June 30, 2020.

Curry Coastline Neighbors: Delivering for Our Seniors - $7,000

Seniors are among the most vulnerable people during the coronavirus pandemic because of threats to their physical health and the isolation caused by shelter-in-place mandates. With support from the COVID-19 Regional Response Fund, the Curry Coastline Neighbors launched a free food and medicine delivery system to ensure that any seniors in need have access to all of life’s necessities for the duration of the pandemic.

“HAF’s generosity enabled our nonprofit to waive membership fees, deliver more food, and make extra calls to combat isolation across our community. Thank you for being a light in the darkness.”

- COASTLINE NEIGHBORS

Trinity Community Food Outreach: Responding to Unprecedented Levels of Need - $25,000

Trinity County Food Outreach received funds to build an all-weather addition to its facility, so volunteers can prepare food for distribution without being exposed to the elements. The organization is now better equipped to serve as many as 3,000 people a month—a quarter of the county’s population—in the wake of the economic downturn created by the pandemic.

“With your generous donations and snow. Thank you.”

- JEFFREY ENGLAND, Food Bank Director

The Karuk Tribe: Increasing Food Security & Resilience - $20,000

The Karuk Tribe invested funds provided by the COVID-19 Regional Response Fund to start a farm to increase local food production to meet the greater need for food during the pandemic and provide valuable employment opportunities for its people. The farm’s first harvest was deemed a huge success, providing enough food to support all tribal members in need.

“... thanks to volunteer efforts and financial resources from HAF, we planted an amazing farm, and we hope to continue it for years to come.”

- CHOOK CHOOK HILLMAN

Del Norte Mission Possible: Providing for the Homeless - $20,000

Mission Possible is focused on developing solutions to address the growing homeless epidemic in Del Norte county. With support from the COVID-19 Regional Response Fund, the organization’s director, Daphne Cortese-Lambert, has continued to meet the needs of a growing number of people experiencing homelessness, offering food, clothing, showers and essentials. And she takes every opportunity to forge relationships with the recipients so she can help them cope with deeper issues including drug use and domestic violence.

“Everyone deserves a shower and a chance.”

Wild Rivers Community Foundation funders provided $25,000 in Holiday Partnership grants in December to 21 nonprofit organizations, agencies and churches that provided thousands of Curry and Del Norte children and families with much-needed food, clothing and other services.

“These grants support the work of many amazing organizations in our community that serve those who really need help, especially during the COVID-19 pandemic,” said WRCF Director Gina Zottola. “We are so blessed by these community efforts, and these partnerships will touch more than 5,000 lives.”

This is the 13th year that WRCF has awarded holiday grants ranging from $250 to $2,500. The grants — funded by donations from family trusts, foundations, businesses and individuals — support programs that provide children with winter coats or Christmas presents, and holiday food for hungry families. The grants also supply warm clothes for struggling veterans and the homeless, and support services for abused or neglected children.

The Brookings Elks Lodge #1934 used their grant to provide needy individuals and families with Christmas food baskets that provided a full meal and included a turkey. The Elks also received funding or in-kind donations from the Brookings Presbyterian Church, Salvation Army, U-Haul and community food drives. They anticipate serving about 1,500 people.

“With COVID-19, we expect an increase in the number of requests as some families are still struggling with limited employment and other challenges,” said Elks Lodge volunteer Johanne Broberg. “We will have a drive-up basket distribution on Dec. 19-20 here at the lodge, and follow all the (COVID-19) protocols.”

Volunteers and staff at the Del Norte Child Care Council hand out pre-packaged food and arts and crafts supplies to families during a street-side giveaway event in December, 2020. Vehicles full of people lined up for three hours to collect the items, many of which were provided, in part, by a Holiday Partnership grant.
Similarly, the Boys and Girls Club of the Yurok Tribe in Klamath, used their grant to host a drive-up event during which families picked up a wrapped gift for children and food supplies to help with holiday dinners. They hoped to provide gifts for 100 children and meals for about 100 families. “We would usually host a holiday family gathering and dinner for our club members, but due to COVID-19, we will not be able to do so this year,” said club Director Harold Jones.

Court Appointed Special Advocates (CASA) of Del Norte applied its grant to a Holiday Gift Giving/Making Memories program to support about 86 children placed in homes due to abuse or neglect, said Executive Director Christine Slette. Children received a warm blanket, stocking hat, a book and gift certificate donated by local businesses.

“The holiday season can be an especially difficult time of year for foster children because they have been separated from their families—they may feel anxiety, depression or anger,” Slette said. “This year, due to COVID-19, we’re anticipating an increase in those mental issues and more.”

A majority of the grants awarded this year came from donations to the COVID-19 Regional Response Fund, established in March by WRCF and Humboldt Area Foundation.

“These grants support the work of many amazing organizations in our community that serve those who really need help ...”

“It takes a whole community for a student to achieve education for life,” shared the Rev. Dr. Paul Joseph T. Khamdy Yang. With that vision, in honor of Dr. Yang, to bridge the Hmong-American community and larger communities, and to support our Del Norte County Unified School District students’ future in higher education, Hmong American National Development Services established the Education for Life Hmong Scholarship on May 12, 2014. With the magnificent support of many community members, HANDS was founded by three Del Norte High School students: Jeremiah Yang, Jonathan Yang, and Destiny Yang. The Education for Life Hmong Scholarship is to be given to one recipient of Hmong decent, and one out of the two recipients must be female. Thank you for your extravagant generosity for our children our future now. Education for life. (2015)

G. Russell Field Scholarship Trust Fund

$138,118

G. Russell “Russ” Field, a photographer for the US Navy and a longtime resident of Smith River, died on February 10, 1998, leaving his estate to Humboldt Area Foundation for the creation of the G. Russell Field Scholarship Trust Fund. A memorial endowment fund, the annual net income provides scholarship awards to graduating seniors of Del Norte High School planning to attend four-year accredited colleges or universities and pursue courses of study in fields other than theology and chiropractic medicine. His trustee, Joan Field, confirmed that Russ denied himself a great deal in order to be able to create this fund to help young people, “our hope for the future.” (1999)
Amidst the chaos of the COVID-19 pandemic comes an inspirational story of giving that brings hope to students and teachers of the small, rural Redwood Elementary School in Northern California.

“For all the students at Redwood Elementary School, and across the nation, we can do so much when we work on a common cause and make this world a better place. We can really change things,” said Greg Holmes, former elementary school teacher and former Vice President of Worldwide Sales for Zoom.

Holmes is the seed donor for the new Redwood School Technology Fund created by Wild Rivers Community to quickly provide devices and related technology to students so they could attend classes remotely and stay connected to their teachers, classmates and their school.

The fund was spearheaded this summer by Redwood School teacher Debi Long who, after reaching out to Holmes, received a $10,000 donation from him to launch the fund. There are about 540 students enrolled in the school, half of which come from low-income households.

“When we left school in March, all my kids did not have access to the internet or devices. They couldn’t be a part of their class,” Long said.

“My one wish for this year is for my students to have a device. My students need them to connect to me and my classroom, and the other kids.”

Long-term, the fund will support the creation of a “STEAM” Lab for Redwood students to explore science, technology, engineering, art and math concepts. There is space at the school for the lab, but little funding to create and supply it, said Long.

“Our kids are eager to learn in an engaging environment, and we really want to foster that drive and curiosity by creating a STEAM lab,” she said.

Help support the students at Redwood Elementary School by sharing this story and spreading this message of kindness.

RCF funders Nick and Lisa Rail continue their effort to boost music experience for the community.

After donating 100 musical instruments to Del Norte County schools and retrofitting the stage lighting at Crescent Elk Middle School in 2020, Nick and Lisa Rail have planted the seed for a performing arts center at the high school by pledging $1 million to get the project started.

“One thing everyone wants is a modern well-equipped place to rehearse, perform and enjoy the arts — a performing arts center built on the high school campus,” Rail told the Del Norte Unified School District board of directors in July. “The students’ education requires it, the community needs it, and that’s why I’m here — to introduce some ideas on how this project could be achieved.”

Rail, a successful California music retailer who attended Del Norte schools in the 1950s and 60s, and his wife, Lisa, established a fund with Wild Rivers Community Foundation in 2018. The Rail’s mission is to ensure that no child is denied the opportunity to play music, with focus on providing and repairing quality band instruments for all elementary, junior and high school music programs.

The couple is now working closely with the school district, community organizations and WRCF on efforts to build a performing arts center, and plan to launch a fundraising campaign in 2021 to obtain grants and private donations. Rail also plans to establish an endowment for facility maintenance.

The initial goal of the proposed center is to seat 800 people and serve as a venue for student activities and community organizations like Lighthouse Repertory Theatre, the Del Norte Association of Cultural Awareness and the Community Concerts Association. For-profit uses would come third, Rail said.

“If we want to book the Rolling Stones, then they have a shot at it,” he said. “But otherwise, if the students have a performance, they have priority.”

Dan Sedgwick, music director at Del Norte High School, called the proposed performing arts center a game changer.

“This isn’t just going to help the high school, but the whole community,” he said. “We all know what graduation’s like when it rains. It would truly amazing to have the facility to house events like this. It’ll just be amazing.”

In the week leading up to Christmas, volunteers with the DNATL Community Food Council busily packed boxes full of canned and dry goods, turkeys and other food items to provide a holiday feast for those in need throughout Del Norte County.

“We’re always busy during the holidays, but the need is nearly three times the normal because of COVID,” said Andrea Lanctot, food program coordinator for the food council.

With help from a grant from Wild Rivers Community Foundation and Humboldt Area Foundation, the council served nearly 600 families that, under non-COVID-19 circumstances, would normally have attended a Community Thanksgiving Dinner. That event was cancelled because of pandemic restrictions, and the newly formed Del Norte Food Security Task Force (consisting of a variety of nonprofits, churches and public agencies) joined with the Pacific Pantry to provide food boxes for Christmas. The boxes were distributed to Del Norte Mission Possible, Our Daily Bread Ministries, Rural Human Services, the Del Norte County Veterans Service office, the Yurok Tribe and the Del Norte Senior Center.

“There are so many organizations – so many people – that have made this possible,” said Amanda Hixon, director of the DNATL Community Food Council. “The need to help people, especially during this pandemic, is extremely high, and we’re so glad that we can do what we can do.”

The FRC is so valuable that First 5 Del Norte has committed to provide long-term financing to ensure the site is a permanent resource for the community. Amy Kaufmann loved life. She enjoyed hiking, wilderness camping, snowboarding, mushroom hunting, fishing, rafting the Smith River, traveling, playing softball, and she loved her job working at Dr. Peter Tardiff’s veterinary office. Amy loved all animals, especially her dog “Green.” Amy was very concerned about the welfare of family pets and the alarming rate of unwanted pets and the uncontrolled pet population. Part of the problem can be attributed to the limited financial resources of some pet owners. The Amy Kaufmann Memorial Fund was established after Amy’s life was tragically taken on January 25, 2010, at the age of 26. Amy was very actively involved in the free spay and neuter clinics in Crescent City and the Del Norte Humane Society’s K9 Olympics fundraiser. Del Norte Mission Possible Named “Nonprofit of the Year”

As with many nonprofits, Del Norte Mission Possible works on a shoestring budget and is dependent on receiving help from many community partners. Wild Rivers Community Foundation has been a constant collaborative thinking partner, serving as a much-needed conduit for resources and has supplied deep technical assistance since its inception.

In early 2020, the nonprofit received $15,000 in grants from the COVID-19 Response Fund established by Wild Rivers Community Foundation and Humboldt Area Foundation. The money helped supplement the shower program and helped address the need for increased services and management support during the pandemic.

The success of Del Norte Mission Possible inspired California Assembly Member Jim Wood in August to name it “Nonprofit of the Year” for his district, which includes Del Norte, Humboldt, Trinity and Sonoma counties.

“Under the dedicated leadership and commitment of Ms. Cortese-Lambert and the support of community partners and generous donors, people in Del Norte County have access to the support they need to improve their circumstances,” Wood said.
When 5-year-old Marcus Grant graduated pre-school and started kindergarten in September, 2020, it marked a milestone for the “3READ23 Literacy Initiative,” a program designed to ensure that all third-grade students in Del Norte County and Tribal Lands are reading at third grade level by 2023.

Marcus was among a group of local preschoolers identified by the literacy initiative soon after its launch in 2016. The initiative, sponsored by The California Endowment and Building Healthy Communities, was developed by educators, business and community leaders, parents and nonprofits. A select group of community partners called the Core Design Team took a deep dive into the school district’s low student test scores. The team, assisted by the consulting firm ThinkPlace, began an 18-month journey of empathy interviews. They synthesized the information and produced a “journey map” that not only revealed the community’s story of literacy but guided their efforts to create solutions and system changes to achieve the third-grade literacy goals.

“When we began, the realization that over 60 percent of children in our community were not prepared for kindergarten struck a nerve for me,” said team member Melodee Mitchell, executive director of the Del Norte Child Care Council. “This was an area I was compelled to improve for our littles, they deserved a better start to their education.”

Establishing good reading skills is more than just learning the ABCs. It starts with families having access to quality books, understanding the importance of reading every day, attending the right preschool or daycare, having support for day-to-day life, and other critical skills to be successful in kindergarten. It also starts with giving pre-school teachers and daycare staff information, resources and encouragement to help children prepare for kindergarten.

During the past four years, the Core Development Team’s efforts have:

- Raised the awareness of and quality of child care through increased participation in quality care programs, parental knowledge, and choice of preschool opportunities.
- Boosted teacher/provider enrollment boosts in programs such as First 5 Quality Counts, DNCCC Education Network, and Early Head Start for Family Child Care.
- Created preschool professional development opportunities.
- Promoted the Family Resource Center’s involvement groups and “Parent Cafe” to provide parents with resources and help them feel connected.
- Created a free “Ready4K” texting program that provides parents with daily tips and information to help their children be ready for kindergarten. (When COVID-19 pandemic closed schools, this text program was rapidly expanded and texts went out to families of pre-K through fourth grade students to assist them in learning at home.)
- Brought back the Wonder Bus, a mobile library that serves all of Del Norte County (thanks to a collaboration among First 5 Del Norte, Del Norte Child Care Council and other community partners).
- Distributed to parents and children more than 800 “Ready for Kindergarten” backpacks filled with school readiness supplies and resources.
- Supported “Breakfast in the Classroom,” a program in several elementary schools that provide children the fuel they need to succeed.

There is still plenty to be done to insure the success of our children and, in the fall of 2020, the members of the 3READ23 Core Design Team rededicated themselves to building on their success.

The team includes community leaders and partners such as Amira Long, executive director of the Family Resource Center of the Redwoods; Angela Giore, director of First 5 Del Norte; Cynthia Barcelo, Latino health coordinator at Open Door Community Clinic; Melodee Mitchell, director of the Del Norte Child Care Council; Lisa Howard, teacher coordinator for the Del Norte Unified School District; Michelle Carrillo, director of BHC; and Jessica Ortiz, core design team coordinator.

Ongoing goals are to continue building this inventory and providing the resources to maintain it. The long term goal is the construction of a performing arts center on the high school campus. The arts are alive and well in Crescent City, yet there isn’t a proper stage anywhere in the county for groups to perform. The school district and community at large deserves a modern venue to showcase the talents of our youth, whether band, choir, dance, or theater. The Rails welcome your help in achieving this goal. Ted Souza Memorial Fisheries Fund
The Ted Souza Memorial Fisheries Fund was established by the Friends of Del Norte to commemorate a dedicated life of serving as a longtime board member and treasurer. Ted was an avid outdoorsman with a true love for the Smith River. He was a fisherman who committed his life to saving and restoring our historic salmon and steelhead runs on the Smith River. Ted worked hard to keep state fishing regulations commensurate with the decline in fish runs. He supported laws like no bait fishing and catch and release only policies. With his youthful energy and pragmatic outlook, Ted stayed actively involved in local environmental issues into his 90s, an inspiration to us all. Ted’s personal motto was: “It is OK to grow older, just don’t get old.” These funds will be used to further Ted’s interests in fisheries’ habitat restoration and scientific research to help further the health of salmon and steelhead populations on the Smith and other local rivers. Three Crescent City nonprofit childcare centers were on the brink of shutting down in January 2021—victims of the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic—when they received a $20,000 grant to prevent staff layoffs and stay open for 49 children and their families.

“It was that dire of a situation,” said Melodee Mitchell, director for the Del Norte Child Care Council, a community partner with Wild Rivers Community Foundation. “These families are working families and this would have directly impacted their ability to work—and we would have had to lay off employees who would be forced to draw unemployment.”

The grant allowed the three centers—at Mary Peacock Elementary, Little School of the Redwoods, and Redwood Elementary—to operate until April, 2021. The grant was provided by the COVID-19 Regional Response Fund created in March by WRCF and Humboldt Area Foundation. (See related story on page 2.)

Keri Mosey, coordinator for WRCF’s Nonprofit Alliance, heard of the potential closures and encouraged Mitchell to apply for the grant.

“Through our relationship with these community groups we are building a powerful, trusted network of support that makes it easier to lift one another up as we all try to get through these difficult times,” said Mosey.

Mitchell said the lack of financial assistance from the state or federal governments has left childcare facilities across the state scrambling to keep their doors open. Many of these centers, like the three in Crescent City, are solely dependent on enrollment fees to operate. Making matters more difficult, COVID restrictions reduced the number of the children that can occupy any given center, while at the same time the closure of all Del Norte Unified School District classrooms has significantly increased the demand for child care.
“While other industries have received support from Congress to ensure they can remain open during the pandemic, child care has yet to see meaningful investment,” Mitchell said. “This is a critical industry that supports economic recovery and family financial stability. With lower enrollment rates, less revenue, and increased expenses, child care providers cannot hang on much longer. Many have already permanently closed.”

Heidi Bachman, director of the childcare center at Redwood Elementary, said parents who currently enroll their children at that center are still working at places such as Sutter Coast Hospital, Pelican Bay State Prison, Del Norte Unified School District, a local petroleum company, and Del Norte County offices.

“Parents were stressing out about what they will do if we shut down. These families and these kids need us and this grant is a tremendous gift.”

Wild Rivers Community Foundation (WRCF) is honored to collaborate with so many diverse philanthropic partners throughout the year to address community needs as they arise in Del Norte and Curry counties.

WRCF believes in the power of partnerships and in the power of people coming together with a united focus and a shared purpose. We engage in these partnerships to build scale and impact that we otherwise alone could not obtain. The collaborative partnerships helped to leverage dollars and impact for Curry and Del Norte County in many diverse ways including the following: Keeping the doors of a veteran-serving organization open, Disaster and Resilience Preparedness facilitation and support, training volunteers to work with foster youth as advocates, provide snacks for after school programs, provide support for sack lunches for Veterans, funding to purchase a new steam table to keep food warm for seniors, support for community theatre and the arts, funding to support literacy through the purchase of books to children in Klamath, and funding Career Technical Education opportunities and projects as presented by youth.

WRCF Partnership Grants

WRCF facilitates two grant rounds each year to support nonprofit organizations, service clubs, schools, tribal governments and faith-based institutions that are providing valuable services to our citizens in the Wild Rivers Region. The following grant rounds would not be possible without the commitment and collaboration of our partners and donors.

Holiday Partnership Grants: This collaboration with our partners supports those institutions and organizations that help provide holiday meals, warm clothing, shoes, and even toys for children who might not otherwise receive them during the holidays providing much needed hope.

Summer Youth Mini Grants are awarded to organizations that provide fun, safe, enriching and healthy activities for children and teens during the summer months when they are not in school. A variety of activities, from acting classes to sports to art camps, offer personal growth and are available throughout Del Norte and Curry counties.

Since its inception WRCF has awarded more than $3 million in grants and scholarships in Del Norte and Curry counties. Our partnerships and collaborations with private funders, donors, businesses and other foundations help us to leverage dollars to powerfully impact the communities we serve. Thanks to our partners for their generosity and commitment to our communities.
